

Profiles of Hope

Hilda Revelo is married with a 10-month old daughter. She utilizes a variety of services at Project Self-Sufficiency, both in the privacy of her own home and at the agency's office in Newton. As a home visitation participant, Hilda has welcomed the child-rearing tips and other information provided to her by her Spanish-speaking home visitor. At the agency's Career Center, Hilda has embarked on a path of self-discovery and potential employment by attending the Career, Education & Employment Foundations courses, as well as the Foundations of Personal Success classes. She also took advantage of the gifts available to her at last year's Season of Hope toy shop to provide for her infant daughter.

She is grateful for the programs at Project Self-Sufficiency which have boosted her self-confidence along with her parenting skills. She points out that the agency has been an excellent resource for other services and programs within the community.

Hilda's long-term goals are to improve her English skills and find a job. She hopes to provide a stable future for her daughter.

"Project Self-Sufficiency has made me a more confident, knowledgeable mother."
